FUND UPDATE

ALF's Net Asset Value ("NAV") declined 9.07% in the month of March. Despite the global volatility impacting asset prices in March, the primary contributor to the negative return was movement in foreign exchange. The BRL fell approximately 16.4% against the USD, affecting the Vision and Autonomy funds specifically and contributing 8.4% of the 9.1% NAV fall. The USD/BRL rate was 5.21 on March 31st and remained volatile throughout April and May, peaking at 5.89 on May 12th before returning to 5.34 by the end of May.

In local currency terms, the Vision funds' NAVs were largely stable in the month, reflecting their position as predominantly legal creditor claims against Eletrobras and sovereign Brazilian entities. Brazil is facing a significant challenge navigating its response to the COVID-19 crisis, which ultimately could impact the respective counterparties' ability to make payment (or process the claims). To date, Vision does not believe that the recovery prospects (in BRL) have been altered by the current climate. There were no material developments on the Ukrainian property exposure held within Gillett in the month – construction continues albeit at a slow pace. We do, however, expect that the market volatility will slow sales even further as financing opportunities, a key focus of the development, are currently even more challenging and potential buyers may be hesitant to make purchases in the current environment.

Some of the Company's smaller positions did experience some significant mark-downs:

- Autonomy Rochavera Fund was down 17.7%, excluding distributions. This fund owns a commercial property development in Brazil with a large portion of the write-down related to currency, as mentioned above;
- Serengeti Opportunities Funds were down 30.9%, excluding distributions. The primary asset owned by these funds, Red Rocks Resorts Inc. (NASDAQ:RRR), dropped 82% to a 3-year low on March 18th but was able to recover a portion of this movement, ending the month down 59%. Prior to the fall, the fund had set aside a distribution of $228k, leaving a balance at March 31st of $185k.

ALF received cash distributions from Autonomy Rochavera Fund and Warana 2018 Fund in March for a total of $45k. Subsequent to March, ALF received $228k from Serengeti Funds in early May, which is included as a receivable as at March 31st.

ALF VALUATION METHODOLOGY

ALF is invested in approximately 30 illiquid third party funds. The quality of assets and information provided by these funds varies. While many funds provide regular net asset value estimates of their portfolio, it is Warana's experience that these valuations can be optimistic and it is generally expected that these type of funds trade at a discount to these valuations in the secondary market (where observable). Some of the funds in the investment portfolio are also delinquent in providing their valuation estimates and/or have not had their accounts audited in a regular timeframe. As such, Warana believes it is appropriate to review the valuations provided by the underlying funds and apply provisions where appropriate. Unfortunately, the secondary market for fund interests is not deep, is characterized by many small transactions and pricing information is not particularly transparent. Price points can also be skewed adversely through the activity of one off highly motivated sellers. As such, Warana can not readily apply a 'mark to secondary bid' valuation approach due to a lack of quality independent third party information.

Warana has developed a provisioning process to evaluate the portfolio as objectively as possible by taking into account the quality of the information received from the underlying funds, their valuation processes, geographical locations and risks associated with the assets. Where possible, this analysis is then checked against observable secondary market activity. Provisions are applied based on the following criteria:

1. Where a manager, liquidator or other authorized party has advised that they expect a recovery materially less than the stated net asset value, the conservative end of this range is applied as a provision to the fund.

Where no third-party guidance is received, Warana applies provisions of 10% – 50% across each of the following criteria cumulatively:

2. If the net asset value is delinquent and/or not provided within the time frame previously advised to investors, a provision is applied.
3. If a third-party liquidator (or similar) has been appointed, an incremental discount is applied and if this party has not made progress on the fund in a reasonable time frame, this discount may be increased.
4. Warana seeks to receive bottom up information on the remaining assets in each of the funds. Because these funds are run by third parties, it is not always simple to get the full amount of information desired. An incremental discount is applied if the additional asset level information desired has not been received.
5. If fund audited financial statements are late or qualified, a discount is applied, which increases if an audit has not been completed for several years.
6. It is expected that funds have third party administrators/valuation agents. Should Warana not be able to determine whether such a group is still involved, an incremental discount is applied.
7. An additional discount is applied relating to the perceived incremental geographic, political or currency related risk of the asset or manager.
8. It is common for legacy illiquid funds to be involved in some type of litigation or have issues with key regulators. An incremental discount is applied depending on the severity of the litigation or investigation.
9. Should the fund or assets still have significant leverage an incremental discount is applied.

Warana then gathers the cumulative discounts applied in steps 1 through 9 and seeks to compare the proposed provision against what is observable in the secondary market. The following incremental test is applied.

10. If Warana is aware of a reliable third party, completed secondary market price that is:
 - a. Within the last 6 months: AND
 - b. At a discount to the manager provided net asset value of greater than 50% discount; AND
 - c. The price is more than 25% different to Warana's price calculated by applying 1 through 9, then an extra provision is applied to equate the provision levels to the secondary market value.
