FUND UPDATE

ALF's Sep 30 Net Asset Value (NAV) is 21% lower than the previously released indicative NAV. The main driver for this is an increased provision for the Vision Special Credit Opp Eletrobrás Fund (ELT).

As discussed in the last fact sheet, the remaining claim in ELT can be split into two parts: the undisputed and the disputed, which centres on the penalty interest rate calculation since 2005. Vision's external lawyers have worked with the court-appointed calculation agent to determine the ratio between undisputed and disputed and agreed a 77/23 split. The lawyers then applied to withdraw the undisputed portion, however, the 1st instance judge ruled that the claims' validity needed to be determined again.

The external lawyers believe this is ridiculous since the case has - in theory - passed the 1st instance stage and is now in the hands of the 2nd instance court, which has the power to issue the withdrawal permit. The new 1st instance decision will now have to be appealed before applying for withdrawal. Eletrobrás's lawyers are using all the tools at their disposal to delay and obfuscate this process.

The position currently attracts a Vision NAV of US$4.4MM. Assuming a 77% withdrawal at face value, the potential recovery for ALF is c. US$3.4MM, against which are fees and expenses to be deducted, which we estimate would be approximately 10%, but possibly more. However, given the latest news and the potential for further delays, in conjunction with ALF's targeted liquidation date, we have increased our provision to reflect what recovery we might be able to achieve within our preferred time frame. (Continued on the next page)

With regard to the Vision FCVS RJ Fund (RJ), Vision, the independent Cayman fund directors, and the 6 largest shareholders, have been discussing the remaining assets in RJ, the cash balance and the future of the fund.

Vision has proposed a final distribution to all shareholders in exchange for the retention of the remaining claims. These claims, as discussed previously, are the most difficult to monetize and novate, mainly due to the inadequate ownership-chain verification. In addition, another group of shareholders with whom Vision has been contending for the past several years is, we understand, preparing to block aggressively any further novation's with Caixa. Consequently, we are doubtful as to whether the remaining credits will be novated in the short or medium term.

It is in the interest of shareholders that a sale of the remaining claims, less the fund's current and potential future liabilities to Vision, be negotiated in exchange for a cash distribution and full redemption from the RJ fund. A discussion is ongoing and we expect it to conclude in the next month, which should allow a final RJ distribution in Q1 2026. ALF's other assets have either been sold or are in the process of being sold, with documentation agreed between the parties.

ALF VALUATION METHODOLOGY

ALF is invested in approximately 4 illiquid third-party funds and companies*. The quality of assets and information provided by the managers of these funds varies greatly. While many funds provide regular net asset value estimates of their portfolio, the Board believes that these valuations can be optimistic in their inputs or assumptions, and it is generally expected that these type of funds trade at a discount to these valuations in the secondary market (where observable). Some of the funds in the ALF portfolio are also delinquent in providing their valuation estimates and/or have not had their accounts audited in a regular timeframe. As such, the Board thinks it is appropriate to review the valuations provided by the underlying funds and apply provisions where appropriate. Unfortunately, the secondary market for fund interests is not deep, is characterized by many small transactions and pricing information is not transparent. Price points can also be skewed adversely through the activity of one-off, highly motivated sellers. As such, the Board cannot readily apply a 'mark to secondary bid' valuation approach.

As previously mentioned, the provisioning process considers the quality of the information received from the underlying funds, their valuation processes, geographical locations and risks associated with an underlying fund's assets. Where possible, this analysis is then checked against observable secondary market activity. Provisions are applied based on the following criteria:

1. Where a manager, liquidator or other authorized party has advised that they expect a recovery materially less than the stated net asset value, the conservative end of the recovery range is used.

Where no third-party guidance is received, the Board applies provisions of 10% – 50% across each of the following criteria cumulatively:

2. If the net asset value is delinquent and/or not provided within the timeframe previously advised to investors, a provision is applied.
3. If a third-party liquidator (or similar) has been appointed, an incremental discount is applied and if this party has not made progress on the fund in a reasonable time frame, this discount may be increased.
4. The Board seeks to receive bottom-up information on the remaining assets in each of the underlying funds. Because these funds are run by third parties, it is not always possible to get the full amount of information desired. An incremental discount is applied if the additional asset level information desired has not been received.
5. If fund audited financial statements are late or qualified, a discount is applied, which increases if an audit has not been completed for several years.
6. It is expected that invested funds have third party administrators/valuation agents. Should the Board not be able to determine whether such a group is still involved, an incremental discount is applied.
7. An additional discount is applied relating to the perceived incremental geographic, political or currency related risk of the fund or manager.
8. It is not uncommon for legacy illiquid funds to be involved in some type of litigation or have issues with key regulators. An incremental discount is applied depending on the severity of the litigation or investigation.
9. Should the fund or assets still have significant leverage, an incremental discount is applied.

*Includes portfolio holdings with a positive NAV after provisions.

The Board then gathers the cumulative discounts applied in steps 1 through 9 and seeks to compare the proposed provision against what is observable in the secondary market. The following incremental test is applied.

10. If the Board is aware of a reliable third party, completed secondary market price that is:

- Within the last 6 months: AND
- At a discount to the manager-provided net asset value of greater than 50% discount; AND
- The price is more than 25% different to the Board's price calculated by applying 1 through 9, then an extra provision is applied to equate the provision levels to the secondary market value. The Board will keep that provision in place until new and/or significant information emerges.

The following table summarizes how each of the top 4 investments in ALF (by ALF NAV) measure against the valuation approach and the cumulative provision applied against each:
